History

Aims

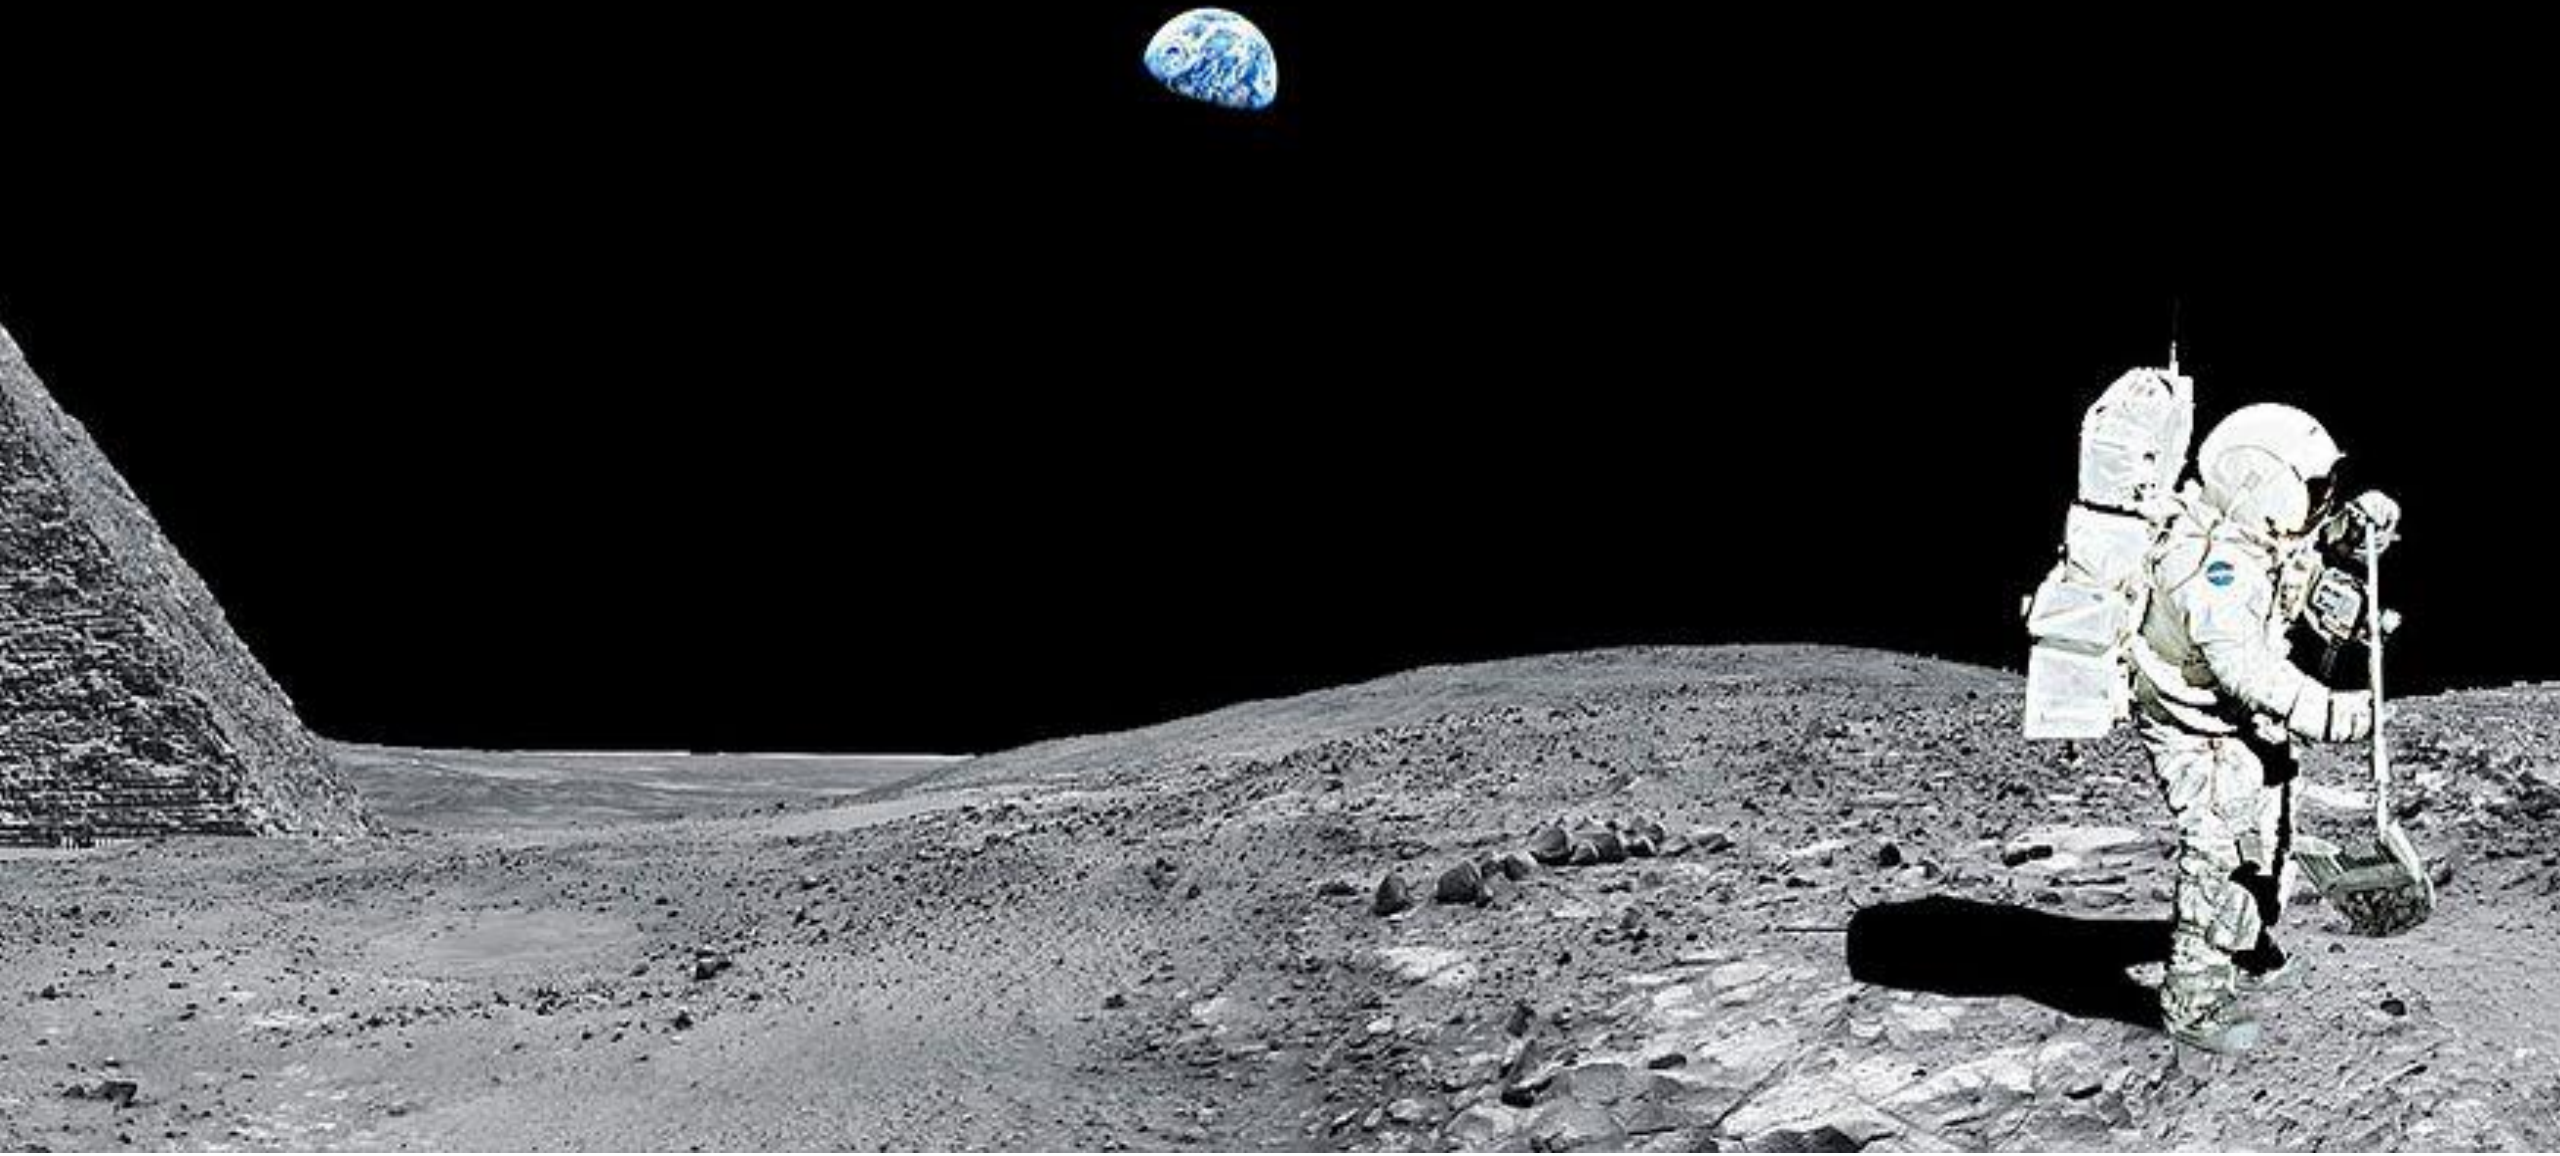

Pupils' historical knowledge and skills are developed through analysing and judging different sources of evidence and understanding its importance when piecing together the past.

The history that pupils learn is brought alive for them through investigating and asking questions about the past, present and future.

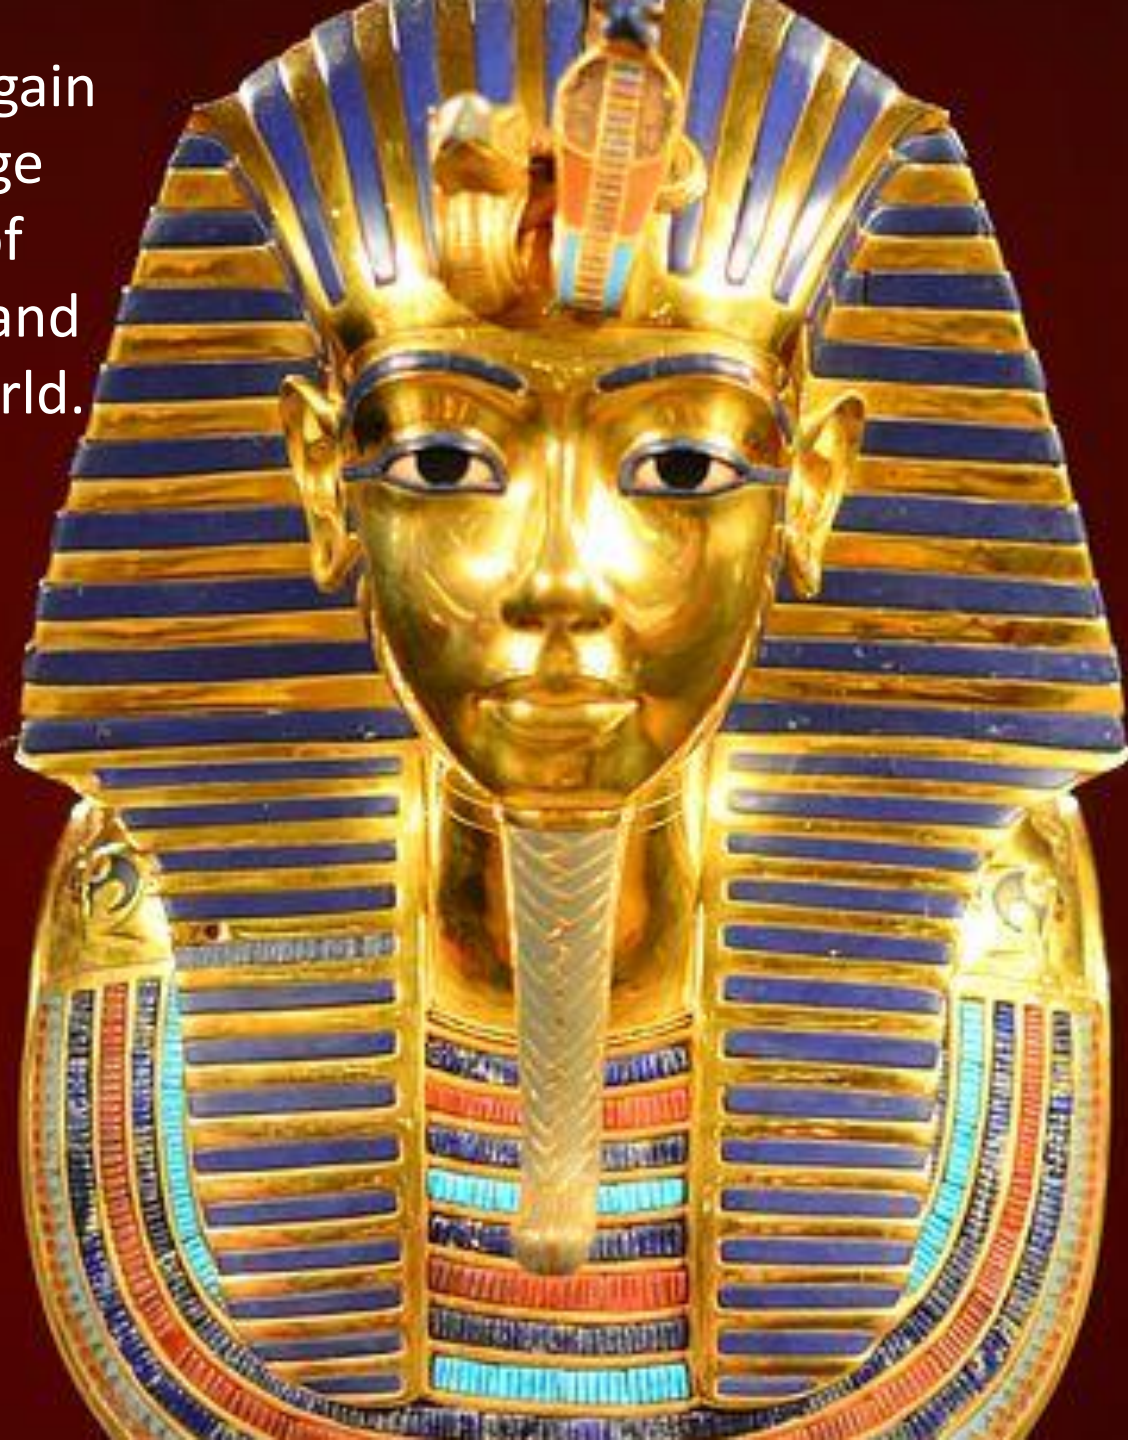

History teaches pupils to recognise similarities and differences between periods of history and see how the past has shaped the future.

Chronology helps pupils see the 'big picture' of the historical narrative, enabling pupils to make connections made between different periods from the past and the present.

History helps pupils gain a coherent knowledge and understanding of their country's past and that of the wider world.

The history that pupils learn encourages them not to simply see the past through the lens of the present, but to understand how values and attitudes have changed over time.
