

Geography Knowledge Building

Explain how archaeological remains show some of the changes in Greece since the fall of the Ancient Greek Empire	Know the origins and purposes of some of the human geographical features of Athens and Sparta	Understand ways in which the physical geography of Greece influenced how people lived	Know and understand the term 'water cycle' and apply it in the context of Greece	Know that Sparta's mountainous location and its fertile soil meant it could be self-sufficient, as well as well-defended	Identify how some of the geographical features of Greece and your own country differ
Know that there are archaeological remains which show some of the changes since the fall of the Ancient Greek Empire	Know some of the human geographical features of Athens and Sparta	Know some of the physical geographical features of Athens and Sparta	Know and understand the term 'urbanisation' with reference to Athens	Know that Athens' geographical location meant it became a wealthy naval trade centre	Know some of the differences between the features of Greece and your own locality
Know that both primary and secondary sources of evidence show process and change	Know, compare and describe some human geographical features in the wider world	Know, compare and describe some physical geographical features in the wider world	Know and understand key vocabulary related to geographical processes	Know and understand the interrelationship between location and environment	Understand how and why some places and features are similar or different, giving reasons
Processes and Changes	Human Geography	Physical Geography	Geographical Vocabulary	Locations and Environments	Similarities and Differences

Athens v Sparta